Boy Scouts Have First Campfire

Friday evening, November 23, the newly organized Boy Scout Troop held its first campfire meeting in Cook's Cove. After several games on the beach in the moonlight the boys listened to a number of exciting stories around the campfire told by F. R. Bechdolt and Captain W. L. Maxwell, both of whom are assistant scoutmasters. Following the stories scout songs were sung. Benjamin Loxley then told a ghost story which was followed by singing of "Taps" and the usual impressive closing.

The next meeting will be held Monday at 7:30. Important business will be transacted and plans made for the future.

Everyone who is interested is invited to attend an open meeting of the troop here which will be held Friday evening, December 7th at 7:30. Many of the boys have completed the requirements to become a scout and will be awarded their tenderfoot badges at this time. The two patrol leaders—Robert Reigg of the Owl and Sherman Snow of the Flying Eagle Patrol will be presented with badges of their rank.

Planners Neutral on Proposed Road

That the Peninsula Planning Commission will take no stand for or against the proposed Pacific Grove-Carmel road was made evident at a recent meeting of that body.

There was some discussion of the project, the Grove representatives being in favor of the scheme and the Carmelites against it, but no recommendation was made to the board of supervisors, before whom the matter will probably come next Tuesday.

The only action which the commission will take is as to the route the road will follow should the board of supervisors act favorably upon the petition of W. R. Holman and others.

Point Lobos in Poem and Picture

In the Christmas number of Scribner's Magazine, published November 24, there appears a set of drawings of the ancient trees at Point Lobos. These drawings are done by Cornelius Botke. Accompanying the drawings is a poem by Jeanne D'Orge. The drawings bring out, as no photograph possibly could, the spirit of these ancient trees which are among the most unique in America. The eerie quality of the place is expressed in the poem which calls Point Lobos

"a lost place—out of the memory of the race—of any known race."

Frequent Visitor Here Dies in Piedmont

Funeral services for Mrs. Blanch Sharon Farr, who died on Wednesday of last week at the family in Piedmont, were held on Friday afternoon from the Interdenominational Church in Piedmont. Mrs. Farr's death followed an an illness of several months. She is survived by two sons, William Sharon Farr and Frederick Farr. Mrs. Farr was born in Nevada, and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Sharon, pioneers in Piedmont, and representatives of one of the most prominent of the early families in California. She was the sister of Mrs. Florence Sharon Brown of this city, Mrs. Adelbert de Grassi, Mrs. Lucius G. Norris, Claude Sharon, Robert A. Sharon and Hurford C. Sharon, and aunt of Mrs. H. P. Glassell of this city.

Mrs. Lena C. Collar of Chicago and her niece, Miss Agnes Steed, have taken the Wendy cottage on Camino Real for a month or two.

Opening of New Carmel Theater an Epoch-Making Occasion

Carmel's new theater is a reality.

With a resounding crash of cymbal in the strong and capable hands of Fred Bechdolt our new playhouse was officially opened last Wednesday night.

It was a large, eager and appreciative audience that assembled to take part in and to be part of the celebration of the Arts and Crafts important forward steps having to do with this community's artistic development and expansion.

What did it matter if there were a few vacant seats in the rear of the theater? They were really good to look upon, for now we know that hereafter we can seat all who desire to witness our dramatic efforts.

Frederick Preston Search's orchestra added much to the spirit of the opening, and the serving of tea during the intermission was an agreeable innovation.

Yes, the new Arts and Crafts Theater is a reality, but there are still many odds and ends required to complete the work so auspiciously begun. In the effort to make Thanksgiving week the opening time much had to be forgone. The new curtain was not ready, the lighting arrangements were incomplete, the new seats had not arrived.

But it was a glorious and epoch-making inauguration of something that this community has long wished for.

And now to the plays.

Shades and shadows and memories of "The Yellow Jacket!" True, "The Thrice Promised Bride" is conventionally Chinese and picturesque, but why the author was awarded a prize for his play will always remain a mystery. Certain it must be that the awarding committee had no knowledge of the Benrimo play.

So obvious was the story of the play that The Chorus might well have been eliminated and John Hilliard permitted to enact one of the other important characters. To have done so would not seriously have violated the Chinese stage conventions.

Of course the outstanding role in this comedy, as in "The Yellow Jacket," is the Property Man, a stellar part, and the excellent acting of the other characters was more or less lost sight of, but good work they did even though Fred Bechdolt "walked away with the play."

Of the second offering, Dunsany's "The Queen's Enemies," it should be said at the outset that John Hilliard had a great deal of courage under the circumstances and much confidence in local talent to produce it. So easily could it have been made ludicrous.

Candidly, on the first night it did not "get over." It is said the second night's performance was great improvement on the first.

The element of abject fear with which a group of strong fighting men were supposed to be possessed did not get into the consciousness of the audience. To those who had not read nor seen the play the impression that early went forth was that the theme of the play was a battle of wits between the hostile men and one lone woman, and that ultimately the woman would triumph. When the awful climax came and the men were drowned like rats in a trap, the audience was shocked into something different.

In all fairness it should be said that on the first night something went wrong with the lights.

There was some splendid stage work in this play, notably by Margaret Fitch and Marie Gordon (who took the parts on two days' notice), Thomas Bickle and John Hilliard.

"Doubling in Brass," presented last night and again tonight, will be reviewed in next week's paper.

Following tonight's performance a dance will be given at Arts and Crafts Hall.

Street Closing Case Must Go to Trial

The demurrer interposed by the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea and other defendants to the complaint filed by F. A. and Agnes Nelson, in which the latter seeks to injoin the closing of part of Carpenter street in the southeastern section of this city, has been overruled by Superior Judge J. A. Bardin. This action of the court means that the case will have to go to trial, and a bitter contest is anticipated. The attorney for the city is Argyll Campbell; for the Nelsons, a San Francisco attorney, Frank J. Golden, will appear, and the other defendants are represented by Hudson, Martin and Jorgenson.

"Mutt and Jeff" Selling the Earth

Some time before long there will come to one of the local moving picture houses a picture entitled "The Chorus Girl." Don't fail to see it, for in it appears our old friend Thomas Gaylord Fisher, known to his intimates here as "Togo." The Universal Film Company has cast him as a comedy policeman in this screen attraction.

But, to continue, "Togo" is not in the movies now. He is a Los Angeles realtor, associated with Fred B. Stonerod, who tried his hand at the newspaper business in Monterey. Since having gone back to the land they are reported as doing well.

First Music Event in New Theater

The new Arts and Crafts Theater will not be "dark" for long, for on next Saturday evening announcement is made of the first musical event in the new playhouse.

The affair is for the benefit of the building fund. It is eminently proper that such an event be given by a local artist, and so it will be.

David Alberto, eminent pianist, has arranged a splendid program. He will be the sole artist—perhaps we should say the soul artist, for we know that in times past he has thrilled us, elated us, subdued us, with his consummate artistry.

We Have Scores Just Like This

A subscriber in Red Oak, Iowa, renewing her subscription, writes as follows:

The Pine Cone has a strange fascination—keeping me informed and seemingly in touch with my pet place, of all places, in California. Though pleasantly situated in my own Iowa home, I hunger for Carmel-by-the-Sea, and hope to some time return for a sojourn in your midst.

The Pine Cone is unique and so typical of beautiful Carmel herself. Each number brings me a thrill of delight. Spicey!

Events of the Month

In Which Carmelites are Chiefly Concerned

Branch of League of Woman Voters is organized in this city.

Boy Scout troop is organized here, but the organization is in need of a leader.

John Northern Hilliard is offered directorship of new community theater in Santa Barbara.

November was a busy month in local property transfers and in the making of building contracts.

"Wee Acorn," publication of the pupils of Forest Hill Outdoor school, issued its first number. It made a hit.

Fenton P. Foster, appointed manager of Monterey Peninsula Communities, vice John N. Hilliard, resigned.

City board of trustees held a hot session on November 10, but the dove of peace now hovers over the contingent.

T. W. Morgan Jr. has leased to the government for ten years the local postoffice building, thus settling the controversy as to "Who is Uncle Sam's landlord?"

The bumps on San Carlos highway from one end of the city limits to the other have been eliminated. It is now a road of a thousand wonders instead of a thousand cusses.

Arts and Crafts Theater, Carmel's new playhouse, is opened November 28. Plays produced on four successive nights were "The Thrice Promised Bride" and the "Queen's Enemies," produced by John Northern Hilliard, and "Doubling in Brass," produced by Perry Newberry.

Valley Road Boosters Coming to Peninsula

The people of the San Joaquin valley are anxious to visit the cities of Monterey Peninsula during the warm summer months. They want to get to the sea and they want a quick and convenient route to reach here.

These people of Kings, Tulare and Fresno counties cannot come here over present routes because of the long mileage. What they want is a direct route to Carmel, Monterey and Pacific Grove.

Twenty-nine miles of the Coalinga-San Lucas lateral remains to be completed—six miles in Fresno county, the balance in Monterey county.

This is the piece of highway the valley people want completed, and to further their efforts in this direction a meeting has been arranged for to take place in Monterey on Wednesday, December 12. The supervisors of the three counties above-mentioned together with a delegation of some fifty business and professional men will be in attendance.

The business people of Carmel are urged and advised to attend. Place of meeting will be announced in next week's paper.

Carmelite Wins

In an essay contest conducted by the Salinas Chamber of Commerce Virginia Burton, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Burton, is the winner. The subject was "Why I Live in Monterey County."

Tonight, "Doubling in Brass," at the Arts and Crafts Theater---Dance after Show

"Oh, I Say, Sir!"

The secretary of the Carmel Chamber of Commerce, Peter Mawdsley, has addressed the following letter to W. R. Holman of Pacific Grove:

Dear Sir:

I am writing to call your attention to an inacurate statement contained in your communication to the editor of the Pacific Grove Review, which appeared in that journal on Friday, November 23, in reference to the meeting of the Carmel Chamber of Commerce on the question of the proposed Carmel-Pacific Grove highway.

The statement referred to is:

"After this action the secretary apologized for the Chamber having been rude to this visitor who called in the interest of the general public and was refused a hearing."

I made no apology to Mr. Sanborn (the visitor referred to), nor did I have any conversation whatsoever with him. Moreover, for your information and correction in this matter, I would say that the floor was not at any time during the meeting referred to taken from Mr. Sanborn. On the contrary I can assure you that he was received with the utmost consideration by the chairman of the meeting, W. L. Overstreet, and given [illegible] which he had previously referred to. But he chose not to do so and specifically withdrew his request.

The purpose of this letter is merely to make the correction referred to, and I leave it to you to take what course you may deem proper with the editor of the Pacific Grove Review.

Fine Way to Keep a Face Looking Happy

MRS. LARKIN is a little old lady who lives in a red house just over the hill. The children troop by her door-yard every day on their way to school. They always look up at her windows, for Mrs. Larkin is sure to be at one of them, nodding and smiling in the pleasantest fashion.

Mrs. Larkin has cookies in jars and Mrs. Larkin can knit red mittens faster than anybody else in town. Both cookies and mittens find their way to the mouths and hands of half the children in the village.

At Christmas time, the little old lady is busier than ever. But the nicest thing about her is the expression on her face. To say it shines, does not half describe the brightness of it. One day Tilly Tinker said to her:

"What makes your face like a candle, Mrs. Larkin?"

"Bless you, Tilly!" laughed the little old lady, "What do you mean?"

Tilly had difficulty in explaining, but she finally succeeded in making Mrs. Larkin understand what she meant by comparing her face to a candle.

"I'll tell you a secret," said the little old lady in a whisper: "At Christmas time I always pretend I'm looking at a Christmas tree! A tree with a thousand candles, everyone lighted! So perhaps some of them are reflected on my face. It's a fine way to keep a face looking happy. Just try it yourself!"

Perhaps Mrs. Larkin found the best recipe for happiness—she filled her hands with good works and her mind with the brightness of lighted candles.

Recognized His Limitations.

The great dramatist of France, Corneille, was so absent and embarrassed in society that he wrote of himself a witty couplet, importing that he was never intelligible except through the mouth of another.

REAL SPIRIT

IF THE real spirit of Christmas is within us we will, indeed, find that it is more blessed to give than to receive, and we will give out of the fullness of our hearts and because of the joy that giving brings us, instead of from any other motive. So to get the real joy of giving and to receive the richness of the Christmas spirit in fullest measure, give because your heart prompts you to and forget all else.—Katherine Edelman.

Carmel Dairy Depot Announcement

COMMENCING Saturday, December 1st, 1923, we will serve Pasteurized Milk and Cream. No raw milk will be handled at present.

Some people do not know what Pasteurization means. Let us explain: It is the process of heating milk to a temperature of 145 degrees F. and holding every particle of the milk at that temperature for a period of at least thirty minutes, and then promptly cooling to a temperature of at least 50 degrees F., and holding at that temperature until served.

This process does not change the food value of milk. It prolongs the keeping qualities and makes milk absolutely safe for human consumption.

Autumn's Lesson of Saving

Nature brings its lesson of saving to us all, as winter draws near—for this is the season in which the wild things store away a food supply for the lean months.

Provident human beings everywhere follow this instinctive rule, in laying aside a fraction of their earnings against a day of greater need.

And at the Valley Bank, all the while your savings increase, they are working for you by earning interest of four per cent.

The old Charles Rollo Peters Place

We think in America that we only need to feed the world away from us. Recent surveys have shown that there are over 4,000,000 school children in America who come under the mal-nourished group. This group does not necessarily fall among people who are poor, but, instead, children rich or near poor suffer physical defects that hold back their effort to gain. These defects are corrected in the nutrition classes. A chart is made out and kept like a temperature chart. The top line shows the weight the children should be for their height, and the bottom line the gain or loss in weight. Only one of these children in the group has gained because she followed the instructions the nutrition teacher gave her. Balanced diet, milk, plenty of rest, easy to find and not too much play is some of the secrets. Funds for this work in your community are secured through the sale of Christmas Seals

"It Is More Blessed to Give Than Receive"

THIS has nothing to do with banks or savings accounts; but more money is saved at Christmas time than any other time of the year. Yes, saved. That may sound absurd to a lot of people who have spent all their money buying presents for their families and friends and neighbors, but it is true just the same. How? Why, because giving is the finest sort of saving, and not only saving, but investing. Every good gift is a permanent gain to the giver; it is better than a bank book carrying the same amount, for a gift is more truly a saving than credit account on a bank ledger. If you want to save your money, give it away—wisely. Does that sound unreasonable? Remember, it is more blessed to give than receive.—F. H. Sweet.

AUNT MEHITABLE'S PRESENT

Aunt Mehitable had a powerful and active imagination that often kept her awake. She was ever creating difficulties by imagining them and making things crooked by trying to straighten them out. "Hiram," said she, "I can't think what has got into George; I didn't like the way he looked at us this morning."

"Probably he was thinking of somebody else," answered her brother.

"George," began his aunt the next day, "what was the matter with you yesterday morning, you looked sourer 'n pickles."

"Nothin' was the matter with me," said the boy, "I was puzzlin' over your Christmas present." Then he added, "Since you're so mighty suspicious, I guess I'll give it up." But remembering her goodness of heart, George relented, and, when the day that shines away all unpleasantness came round, Aunt Mehitable had a new nightcap!—C. G. Hazard.

Queen Introduced Fashion.

History verifies the fact that the practice of starching, which came into fashion in England in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, was invented by a Spanish woman about the middle of the Fifteenth century. She wished to hide a blemish on her neck with an enormous ruff.

A Late "It" Arrival Came Just in Time

EVERYONE was watching, waiting, hoping. They all hoped "it" would surely arrive on time.

They hoped "it" would not fail them.

"It" helped the Christmas season so much.

Everyone and everything loved "it."

The children loved "it," the grown-ups loved "it."

The trees of the forest loved "it."

And then "it" arrived. "It" arrived late—almost when everyone was giving "it" up. But even though "it" was a late arrival "it" was not too late for Christmas day. "It" came late Christmas eve.

And haven't you guessed what "it" was?

SNOW of course!—Mary Graham Bonner.

THE HOLIDAY SPIRIT

Christmas spirit necessarily finds many men and women stranded on the shoal, off somewhere, far from the general happiness.

Nevertheless, words of Chandos are vital. "The faculty for happiness is a gift, in any temperament, whose wisdom and whose beauty this world too little recognizes." Chandos' thought is not easy for a certain type of mortal to cultivate, but the holiday spirit may to an extent help out. Self-recognition was soundly urged by Marcus Aurelius many centuries ago, and writings of other Stoics preach tranquillity and harmony through the philosophy that says, "It may all be for the best."

A shipwrecked sailor, buried on this coast,
Bids you set sail!
Full many a gallant barque, where he was lost,
Weathered the gale.

Undue Scrupulousness.

Tenderness of conscience is always to be distinguished from scrupulousness. The conscience cannot be kept too sensitive and tender; but scrupulousness arises from bodily or mental infirmity, and discovers itself in a multitude of ridiculous, superstitions, and painful feelings.—Cecil.

Receiving Christmas Gifts Is a Fine Art

OF COURSE, every gift given means also a gift received. Christmas always has two sides, and certainly there is great joy in receiving the tokens of love and friendship that come to us, not because of their money value, for most gifts are bought for small sums, but because they convey to us an expression of someone's affection. I heard a young girl remark when a little gift came to her, "Well, that didn't break anyone's bank." What a pity. As if Christmas could have in it great joy for anyone who looked for the price tag on a gift. Our character is likely to be revealed by the spirit of our receiving quite as well as by the spirit of our giving. It is this fine art of receiving well that will not only make Christmas the more joyous, but will also be an all-year virtue, if it is cultivated in our hearts.—F. H. Sweet.

Christmas, the Snow and the Sleigh Bells

IT WAS Christmas night. The moon was shining and the snow sparkled like diamonds more rare and wonderful than are ever seen in a jewelry shop.

The bells jingled, the frosty air seemed to say in its cool, cheery way:

"I'm here. I brush against your faces so you can feel me and my cold, bracing ways."

And the sleigh went merrily along.

Inside the sleigh were a man and a girl. And they were saying things which may not sound new to you.

"There is nothing in the world like love," was one of the things they said.

"And to be in love, and sleigh-riding on Christmas night after a perfect Christmas day—there is nothing in the world like it."

But it was as beautiful to them as though no one else had ever said these things. For beauty is not dependent upon novelty. It depends on something far deeper and truer.

There is nothing new about love.

There is nothing new about Christmas.

But that doesn't make either of them any less wonderful.—Mary Graham Bonner.

Best Beauty Parlor for Christmas Time

WE BUY wreathes for the window, tinsel for the Christmas tree, holly for packages and flowers for the table, but what about giving some attention to our faces?

Have you ever thought about that?

Dress your face up in a smile,
Wear it late and early,
It puts the sunshine in your eyes,
And makes your hair look curly!

There is an undeniable magic in happiness—it beautifies!

Happiness makes holiday in the heart, and the face reflects it.

Better than a thousand candles is the light of cheer.

"J-O-Y" is the sign that hangs over the best beauty parlor, and it serves men as well as women. If you would become handsome, become joyous first.

And joy comes from living and giving with kindliness and good-will!—Martha B. Thomas.

And, whereas, five years have elapsed since the date of said sale, and no redemption, according to law, has been made of said property, or any part thereof;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the law in such case made and provided, I, Ray L. Riley, Controller of the State of California, by virtue of the authority in me vested by the laws of this State, do by these presents authorize, empower, and direct you, the said Tax Collector, to sell at public auction, in separate lots or parcels, the property hereinafter described.

The property above referred to, and hereby authorized to be sold, is situate, lying and being in the County of Monterey, State of California, bounded and particularly described as follows, to-wit:

Property sold to the State, June 24, 1912, for the taxes of 1911.

As per Map of Carmel-by-the-Sea, Lot 1, Block 130.

Deed No. 141.

No bid shall be received or accepted at such sale for less than the amount of all the taxes levied upon such property, and all costs and penalties for every year delinquent as shown by the delinquent rolls for said years and also all tax liens up to the date of the execution of the deed to the State, together with interest at seven per cent. per annum and also the graduate redemption penalties required under Section 3817 of Political Code computed upon the aggregate amount of the taxes for each of said years from the first day of July following delinquency to the date of the sale hereunder, and all expenses accrued to the date of the sale under this authorization.

Said sale shall be conducted in all respects as by law governing such sales.

(Seal)

Given under my hand and seal of office, at Sacramento, this 15th day of October, A. D. 1923.

RAY L. RILEY, Controller.

By C. E. COOPER, Deputy

Therefore, in pursuance of law, public notice is hereby given that I will on Saturday, December 15th, 1923, at the hour of 10 a. m., in the County Tax Collector's office, in the Court House in said Salinas City, County of Monterey, State of California, sell in separate lots or parcels at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash in lawful money of the United States, the said property hereinbefore in said Controller's authorization described, which said authorization is hereby made a part of this notice, to-wit:

National Tribute to Buffalo Bill

A memorial to Colonel Cody, famous as Buffalo Bill, at the town that bears his name in Wyoming, is now well under way, according to Mrs. Mary Jester Allen of Cody, Wyo., a relative of the great scout. Not only to preserve the memory of the celebrated frontiersman, but to keep alive the spirit of the West of pioneer days, the project of building a monument to one of the outstanding figures of that time was undertaken by the national and international Buffalo Bill Memorial committee.

The first steps toward this end were the donation of a sum of money by the state of Wyoming and the setting aside of February 26, Colonel Cody's birthday, as a state holiday by a unanimous vote of the legislature. Following this action a commission for a statue of Buffalo Bill was given to Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, who at once went West to become acquainted with the location. A site was selected and approved by Mrs. Whitney, who then submitted a general sketch of the monument. Fifty acres of raw land at the west end of the town of Cody, at the foot of Cedar mountain, and at the mouth of Shoshone canon, was purchased as an appropriate setting. The plan is to preserve this pa[rt] [of] [the] [state], allowing nothing but the immediate site of the monument to be touched. Within this park is to be built a replica of Cedar mountain, the spot selected by Buffalo Bill as his burial place, from soil and rocks brought from the real Cedar mountain nearby. There will be trails on this miniature mountain leading to caves containing relics of the days when scout and Indian were struggling for the mastery of the West. One trail will lead to the summit, where the commanding figure of Buffalo Bill, on horseback and looking to the West, will survey with pride the land he did so much to reclaim. At the base of the reproduction of Cedar mountain will flow a stream symbolizing the redemption of Wyoming by irrigation. All about the memorial there will be camp sites for boys and girls.

The figures which Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney will use as models have been chosen and will soon be on their way to her studio. Mr. F. S. Groves, Jr., owner of Buffalo Bill's famous home, T. E. Ranch, has given his best riding horse, Smokey, born, bred and broken on T. E. Ranch, for the purpose. To accompany the horse are Lloyd and George Colman, world champion cowboys, selected as typical of Wyoming's finest descendants of her pioneer scouts.

The dedication of the Buffalo Bill memorial is set for July 4, 1924. Boys and girls from 16 countries are to be invited to the ceremony. A special appeal to the interest of young people in this project will be made, as it is a particular aim of the persons sponsoring the erection of the memorial to inspire the youth of America with the spirit and ideals that motivated and directed the gallant men who won the West.—National Republican.

BUILDING NEWS

Contractor L. E. Gottfried has begun construction of a redwood studio building for Miss Margaret Offley in Carmel Woods.

The De Forest residence in Carmel Woods was started this week by contractor Murphy. The De Forests are now residing in Palo Alto.

Again the rumor is abroad that a group of Los Angeles men contemplate building a hotel here. It is said they are seeking a site on the hills east of our business section.

The frame work is up for the new Leidig business building on Ocean avenue, to be occupied by the Economy Grocery. The large store will be ready for occupancy before the end of the year.

The attractive homes on San Antonio street will be added to with the completion of Mrs. Abbie Abbott's home. Contractor M. J. Murphy hopes to have the place ready for occupancy by Christmas.

Be Kind to Animals

The majority of people either dislike animals and consider them a nuisance, or are indifferent to them. It probably never occurs to them what it would mean to be thrust into this world without any volition on their part, and with the handicap of being dumb and wholly dependent on human beings for everything they get. How few people try to understand them, and what a struggle these little creatures have trying to make their wants and wishes known.

How stupid they must often think we are when they appeal to us for a drink or something to eat, or try to show us their devotion, and it all goes over our heads. Their wants are few, but they are born with instincts the same as human beings; they get hungry and thirsty; they crave affection; and they like a warm place to sleep.

Aeons ago they were probably wild and were able to hunt and provide for themselves, but we have domesticated them that we may have pets for our children, and that they may rout the pests which would destroy our food, and we should be grateful to them, not indifferent.

The responsibility belongs to everyone. It is easy to learn their language so that you will be able to understand just what they want, and it will save trouble instead of causing it, and you

California Talks in Terms of Billions

It would be incredible, were the evidence not furnished, to believe that the Christmas Seals have accomplished in this state all that the state and local associations have claimed, said Dr. Robert A. Peers, president of the California Tuberculosis Association, in a report today given to the local association. In 1914, when the first organized sale was held, a million and a half seals were sold. Since that time the sale has steadily increased until last year we started in on the second billion of seals sold. Now, on the eve of our ninth organized sale, our workers looking back, see what has been accomplished. City and rural and school nurses, dental hygienists and dental clinics, tuberculosis clinics, scales for schools, equipment for school lunches, nutrition classes, preventoria for children who are border line cases of tuberculosis, summer camps for the underweight school child, and rehabilitation work in hospitals, teaching patients lighter work so they can become self-supporting.

The state death rate from tuberculosis has been cut from 189 per 100,000 in 1914 to 151 in 1922, a saving of over 10,000 lives.

THE LOST FURS

By BILLY ARGO in "WEE ACORN"

Furs, worth ten thousand dollars, were due over the pass from Yukon territory to Alaska.

At the end of two months the furs had not arrived so a party of twelve men was sent to find the cause.

Now the reason the furs had not arrived was because they had been sent to Alaska by a dishonest driver, who, almost as soon as he was out of sight of the pass, drove off on another trail.

Meantime the searchers had wandered far from the trail of the traitor, who by this time had reached the camp of his fellows. He told his tale and his comrades, twenty-two in number, seated on stumps around the supper table right at the entrance to a big lean-to, listened eagerly.

No sooner was supper eaten than the men put the furs out in the light of the camp fire and gathered around them.

At the same minute a bullet came whizzing through the camp and lodged in one of the trees. The fur thieves sprang to arms and got behind a fallen tree to beat off the intruders, who were none other than the twelve men that had been sent after the furs.

The fur hunters had not much of a chance against almost twice their number and retreated about twenty feet, but anyway they had found out who had the furs.

In the rush to get away the man with the furs stumbled and fell. At the same moment a fur hunter leaped on him. As the thief broke away, the hunter wrenched the furs from him and ran back to his comrades.

The searchers then used the same camp as had the fur thieves.

In the morning the good people were about to return to the trading post. They went to the place where they had put the furs—they were gone! And also one of their number missing, not to speak of two rifles.

"We have had a traitor with us," cried one of the men.

Meanwhile the fur thieves had stopped about twenty-five miles west of the hunters. On the third day after the furs had so mysteriously disappeared the lookout of the fur thieves saw about fifty men approaching. He cried, "They have gotten reinforcements and come to claim their furs that fellow brought to us. Get at the lever!"

The fur hunters charged and some one in the camp of the thieves cried, "Release the brake."

The ground caved away from under the hunters and they were hurled down into a pit which had been dug all around the camp.

The first one to survive was a young man by the name of Philip Field. He looked around him and saw that he was in an underground cave with boards across the top. Almost at the same time he realized what had happened—he had been trapped in an underground cave. How was he to get out!

At that moment he felt a light touch on his shoulder. He wheeled and was greatly relieved to find it was only one of his companions who, by this time, had all arisen.

Suddenly they were aware of a humming sound and something crashed through the roof of the cave—an aeroplane!

Out of the aeroplane in the midst of the thieves above sprang a strong, four-footed creature and landed directly upon the man who was carrying the furs over to a safe in a big block of wood. The man went down with a scream and realized at the same moment that he had been leaped upon by one of the Alaskan huskies which had been trained to hunt furs and had been taken in an aeroplane after the missing furs.

Because of the big width of the pit the thieves could not get away until the hunters were upon them.

When the dog saw Phil it ran to him and jumped all over him. Phil cried: "That's my dog."

Soon the furs had been restored to their proper place and the thieves were turned over to the Mounted Police.

WANTED: A LINCOLN

I wish we had a Lincoln in Europe today.—Lloyd George.

This hope of Britain's War Prime Minister is likely to be a futile one. Lincolns are products of evolution rather than of creation or sudden making. In Europe nowadays is no statesman who has manifested qualities out of which a Lincoln may be fashioned. The Lincolnian background is wanting; the Lincolnian mettle is missing; the high principle, the noble idealism, the unselfish, disinterested patriotism of Lincoln are lacking.

In defeat Lincoln, instead of inventing devices whereby his country might have evaded payment of its treaty obligations, would have worn his hands to the bone to discharge the debt imposed upon his country. In victory it was unthinkable that Lincoln would have adopted "Revenche!" as his maxim. Europe may need a Lincoln. Not unnatural is the wish that a Lincoln might be vouchsafed now to Europe. But the hour when this wish might have been gratified is now past. Lincolns antedate wars, go through wars, come out of wars, and carry on their work when wars are no more. Europe's chance to produce a Lincoln was let slip soon after the armistice was signed.

THIS IS YOUR PAPER

In the weekly editing of this paper we often wonder how near it comes to meeting the expectations of those who peruse it. Frequently we watch some man or woman pick it up and scan the pages. Some appear to be interested in everything, including the news stories and features. Others give the paper the once over and lay it aside. Most of the women readers glance at the headlines on the front page and then read the Pine Needles, which appear on the back page. Just how much attention they give to the rest of the paper is a matter of conjecture, but our guess is that most of them read the greater part of all the news and the advertisements if they have the time and the inclination.

Be that as it may, the job of editing a newspaper is full of complexities. Both men and women who have their interests centered on certain promotion schemes, social activities or what not, think that those particular things are of great importance. And perhaps they wonder why events which they are backing are not played up in headlines. In other words, what seems of prime importance to one person, or a group of persons interested in a project may be of little concern to other people. Therefore we must consider the entire clientele collectively.

The Pine Cone is open to constructive criticism at all times, and if any of its readers have any suggestions, let's have them, by mail, telephone or in a personal visit.

Holiday Greeting Cards

The Carmel Pine Cone Craft Print

Annual Announcement, Season 1923-24

THE GIFT-GIVING PROBLEM is with us once again. Whether the Christmas purse is heavy or light the use of cards extending kindly greetings gains favor with the passing years. The affluent supplement their numerous gifts of price with these timely printed words of cheer. The less fortunate find them a satisfactory substitute for the more expensive gifts. The expression of seasonable sentiment is always looked for with pleasurable anticipation, and the question of cost should not affect the measure of acceptability in giving or receiving.

THIS SEASON'S SHOWING of seasonable greeting cards is distinctive in both quality and design, with a wide range of sizes and colors. Many designs have appropriate words of cheer already printed or engraved, awaiting only the name of the sender to speed them on their way. Many others are blank, ready for the expression of an original thought. All are splendid value at the prices quoted and a satisfactory job of printing is always guaranteed. Envelopes to match. Order early while the line is complete.

Pine Needles

Arthur Cyril, one time manager of Carmel Highlands Inn, was a visitor here last week.

Mrs. Leonard Baker, who is occupying the De Angulu residence, has as her mother, Mrs. Strickland.

Arthur Vachell went to Piedmont early in the week to spend the holidays with the Lowell E. Hardys.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Hooper and their two sons were down from San Francisco for Thanksgiving and the week-end.

Jaime De Angulu, recently returned here, and Prof. Leonard Bacon are spending a week at the former's ranch [illegible] Big Sur section.

An interested and pleased spectator of "Doubling in Brass" at our new theater last night was Charles Caldwell Dobin, who wrote the play.

Recent visitors here from Columbus, Ohio, were Mrs. D. Talmadge and daughter, Miss Catherine. They were guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Field.

Mrs. Henry Francis of Pasadena is visiting here, being the guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Rockwell. [illegible] will leave for Petaluma soon, when their guest will visit with Mrs. J. L. Rockwell.

W. A. Swain and wife, that is, "Bill" Swain and "Gyp" Swain, who used to live here, dropped in on us last Sunday. Bill went back to Menlo the same day, but Gyp spent most of the week here.

A new milk and cream depot and delivery service has been established here, to be known as the Eureka Dairy, by E. A. Littlefield. The depot is located in the Carmel meat market

The problems of a growing city make our board of trustees' meetings very interesting and important events in our community life. The regular monthly meeting will be held next Tuesday night.

John H. Cushing and wife of New York City are here. They are guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Turner. Mr. Cushing, who is an uncle of Mr. Turner, is a thirty-third degree golf bug, and both have had some interesting meets on the Pebble Beach course.

Carmelites who attended the California Stanford football game included Mr. and Mrs. Argyll Campbell, Miss Eliot and Richard Boke, Miss Grace Morris, Neal Bragg, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Jordan and son, Miss Constance Heron, James Hopper and son, Frederick Godwin, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Edler and daughters, Captain Louis Ward and family, Paul C. Prince, David and Louise Prince, Chauncey Martin, Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Feuner.
